

INDEX

	Page
Foreword	9
The international Strategic Panorama 2018	9
Introduction	13
Trump's first year	13
More questions than answers	17
Security, democracy and human rights	19
Europe's optimism	24
The November verdict	27
Promises and realities	28
What historians think	31
The best and the worst	33
2017	35
Challenges in 2018	37
Risks and threats	40
Strategic Panorama 2018	45
The EU after the Global Strategy and the future of the CSDP	46
The Middle East after the caliphate	48
The Maghreb: challenges for a region with low integration	49
Asia-Pacific: significant elections and perpetual conflicts	51
América Latina, at a critical juncture	52
Chapter one
The EU after the Global Strategy. The future of the CSDP	55
Introduction: towards a stronger and safer European Union	57
Evolution of strategic thinking in the Union. From the Solana strategy to the Global Strategy	60
Catalysts of the evolution of the CSDP	62

	Page
The Union's response	66
CSDP operations and missions	66
The Lisbon Treaty and the Global Strategy Implementation Plan	69
Permanent structured cooperation (PESCO).....	73
The Commission's Action Plan	76
Command and control capability	78
Funding of CSDP military operations and missions	81
The EU's intelligence structures.....	83
The Union's Rapid Response	84
NATO-EU relations	86
The future, by way of conclusion	87
The near future (until the consolidation of Brexit).....	89
The more distant future.....	91
Chapter two
The Middle East after the caliphate	93
From Mediterranean to MENA.....	95
The Arab Springs and their derivatives	97
Syria, a regional disaster	101
The ultimate root of the problem: Jerusalem.....	104
Regional escalation, global risk.....	109
European derivatives 1: the issue of refugees, European governments and the European Union	114
European derivatives 2: the question of jihadi terrorism	115
Conclusions	120
Chapter three
Latin America at a critical juncture	123
Introduction	125
Politics and elections.....	126
The electoral cycle 2017/2019	126
A few notable precedents. The elections in Argentina, Peru and Ecuador	131
The late 2017 elections	134
Elections in 2018 and 2019	135
Could the potential political changes mean the end of populism?	137
Different manifestations of violence.....	138
The end of the Colombian conflict	140
Economic trends and governance	141
The presence of Latin America in the world	143
Latin America on the international stage	145
Current state of the hegemonic projects and regional leaderships	146
Regional integration. Sub-regional alliances and blocs	147
The presence of significant extra-regional actors: the US, China and Russia	150
Latin America and the EU. Spain's role	153
By way of conclusion: future prospects	155

	Page
Chapter four
Asia-Pacific: a year of significant elections and perpetual conflicts	157
Introduction	159
A year of significant elections	163
Hong Kong: between continuity and democracy	164
South Korea buries its recent past	165
India demands a new place in the world	168
Shinzo Abe and his risky venture	170
The Chinese Communist Party has its new Great Helmsman	172
Asia and its everlasting conflicts	179
North Korea changes the game rules	180
The South China Sea: much more than islands	184
Afghanistan: a decade and a half on	188
India and Pakistan: seven decades of independence and confrontation	190
The Rohingya and their struggle for recognition and survival	192
Conclusions	193
Chapter five
The Maghreb. Major challenges for a region with low integration.....	197
Introduction	199
Morocco. A stable situation with some uncertainty.....	200
Political consequences of the Arab Spring	200
Stifled protests in the Rif	204
Encouraging economic prospects	206
Algeria. A year of transition	207
More of the same policy	207
A troubled economic situation	208
Bouteflika's succession	211
Tunisia. A fragile country facing major challenges	213
A rocky transition to democracy	213
The terrorist threat remains	214
The good and the bad of the Tunisian economy	217
Libya. The war continues	219
One country, several power centres	219
The situation on the military fronts	224
Libya and the wars by proxy	226
Gaddafi is back	228
A recovering economy with important unanswered questions	229
Libya as a migration corridor and slave market	231
Conclusions	232
Composition of the working group	237