

INTRODUCTION, 19

I.- THE SPAIN OF THE FIRST JOURNEY AROUND THE WORLD, 27

- The socio-economic reality of Spain at the beginning of the 16th century, 29
- A colossal, and unexpected inheritance, 41
- The Castile of the Regencies, 49
- King-kingdom: the point of contention, 67
- The Comuneros, 76
- The Germanías, 101
- The return of the King, repression and the new political course of Castile, 114

II.- THE ARC OF DISCOVERIES AND THE ART OF SAILING, 121

- Europe and the sea: from fantasy to new horizons, 121
- Instruments of the sailing arts, 129
- Causes of the discoveries, 147
- Spanish-Portuguese rivalry. The Conquest of the Canary Islands, 151
- Spanish-Portuguese Treaties, Tordesillas and the Alexandrine Bulls, 164
- The Casa de Contratación, 171
- Shipbuilding and ship types, 184

III.- PORTUGUESE EXPEDITIONS IN THE 15TH AND 16TH CENTURIES, 201

- The search for new routes to spices, 202
- Cape of Storms, 213
- Vasco da Gama's first trip to India, 219
- The discovery of Brazil by Álvares Cabral, 246
- Francisco de Almeida's expedition to India in 1505, 250
- The naval combat of Cannanore, 256
- Lopes de Sequeira's expedition, 258
- António de Abreu's expedition to the Spice Islands, 261

IV.- SPANISH EXPEDITIONS IN THE 15TH AND 16TH CENTURIES, 265

- From Alfonsine tables to high seas navigation at the beginning of the 16th century, 267
- The voyages of discovery and barter, 274
- Alonso de Ojeda's first expedition, 279
- The expedition of Pero Alonso Niño and Cristóbal Guerra, 282
- The journey of Vicente Yáñez Pinzón in 1499, 285

The expeditions of Cristóbal Guerra, Vélez de Mendoza and Rodrigo de Bastidas, 291

The Councils of Toro and Burgos of 1505 and 1508, 298

The discovery of the South Sea, 301

The discovery of the Río de la Plata, 315

V.- MAGELLAN AND HIS PROJECT, 325

Origins and young Magellan, 326

Return to Portugal and the start of a new adventure, 332

The expedition of António de Abreu, 336

The events of Azemmour, 339

The treasury of the King of Portugal, 341

Magellan's denaturalization and exodus to Spain, 343

The stay in Seville, 346

Arrival in Valladolid and memorial presented to the king, 350

The capitulations of Valladolid, 354

Correspondence between Alvaro da Costa and the Portuguese monarch, 358

Instructions for the voyage, 363

VI.- PREPARATIONS FOR THE JOURNEY AND DEPARTURE OF THE EXPEDITION, 383

Naos and caravels in ocean navigation, 383

Difficulties in preparing for the voyage, 387

Logistics and personnel, 393

Provisions, costs and equipment, 399

Food on ocean voyages during the age of discoveries, 406

The replacement of Faleiro and problems with personnel selection, 410

Juan de Cartagena and Juan Sebastián Elcano, 416

The Interrogation of Magellan, 421

Magellan's donation, 426

Magellan's declaration on the Spice Islands. His will and testament, 428

The departure from Seville, 434

VII.- THE ORGANIZATION OF THE EXPEDITION, 437

Magellan and the Spanish-Portuguese rivalry, 439

Operations Order 1/1519 of May 8., 444

Situation, 444

Mission, 444

Analysis of the tasks, 445

Higher purpose analysis, 448
Execution, 449
Administration of the spoils, 452
Personnel, 454
Land administration, 454
Logistics, 455
Administration and logistics considerations, 456
Command, 457
Communications, 460

A fundamental book in the manner of sailing directions, 463

Longitude calculation, 465

Latitude calculation, 468

Cartography and ships, 470

VIII.- FROM SEVILLE TO THE PHILLIPINES, 475

The departure, 475

The Canary Islands, 478

From the Canary Islands to Sierra Leone, 482

Mutiny at sea, 488

Atlantic route sections, 490

Equator crossing and the bay of Santa Lucía, 491

From Rio de Janeiro to the port of San Julián, 496

The winter in San Julián, 500

The loss of the Santiago, 506

And, at last, the Passage, 507

The desertion of the San Antonio, 508

The start of the navigation in the Pacific, 512

Geographical challenges, 516

Logistics, 521

IX.- PHILIPPINES: MAGELLAN'S DECISIONS, 527

The island of Samar, 527

The Chinese presence in the Pacific and in the Indian, 531

The San Lazáro Islands, 539

The crews rest, 546

The island of Cebu and King Humabon, 556

Tribal wars. Zula and Cilapulapu, 574

Mactan, a badly calculated risk, 577

The tragic end of Magellan, 579

X.- THE SUCCESSION IN THE EXPEDITION'S COMMAND, 587

Reactions to the death of Magellan, 587
An invitation from Humabon, 592
Carvalho heads the expedition. Elcano enters the scene, 597
Brunei, 604
Conflict with Siripada, 613
The journey continues. The overthrow of Carvalho, 617
The Triumvirate: Martín Méndez, Gómez de Espinosa and Elcano, 621
Tidore, 630
The Spice Islands, at last, 636
The entry to Tidore, 642
Sailing south, 653

XI.- THE RETURN, 659

Elcano and the Victoria begin their return, 659
From Tidore to Timor, 665
The Sunda Sea and the South Indian Ocean. The route chosen by Elcano, 680
The dilemma: surrender to the Portuguese or continue the journey, 687
The return across the Atlantic, 694

XII.- THE CONCLUSION OF THE FIRST CIRCUMNAVIGATION AND ITS CONSEQUENCES, 703

The survivors, 703
The odyssey of the Trinidad and its crew, 710
Testimonies of the voyage around the world, 719
 Pigafetta and his diary, 722
 Francisco Albo and his Diario, 728
 Maximilianus Transylvanus and his description of the voyage, 731
The judicial proceeding led by Sancho Díaz de Leguizamo, 734
Ownership of the Molukus: the Conference of Elvas-Badajoz, 743
Elcano's Last Course, 748
Elcano's last will and testament. The heirs, 754
The Treaty of Zaragoza, 760
Scientific repercussions of the circumnavigation, 764

BIBLIOGRAPHY, 769